AAPI Community Advised of Potential Additional Wave of Burglaries

The Asian American Council of Oregon (AACO) advises the Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community to review home security measures in light of a potential additional wave of burglaries.

A burglary recently targeted the home of a local Eugene area AAPI business owner while the family was at work. Like other burglaries, the security cameras in the home were disabled, and the home itself was ransacked. We have learned of similar burglaries recently targeting the homes of AAPI business owners in other parts of Oregon.

AACO advises business owners to be vigilant about vehicles or individuals who may be monitoring their homes or businesses. AACO also asks neighbors to be aware of people accessing homes who may be wearing construction-type clothing, delivery uniforms or signs, or similar disguises.

If you believe that your home or business is being targeted or have questions, please contact AACO by sending an email to info@asiancouncil.org
